Mr. Harold Weisberg

Hyattstown, Md. 20734

Dear Mr. Weisberg:

Since The Associated Press inquiry into the Warren Report did not agree with the main theme of its most widely read critics, it was not too surprising that you were not enthralled by the effort.

We would be happy to give you a copy of the original work except that it was transmitted to our member newspapers by wire. I am told that the Washington Post printed the story in its entirety on Sunday, which should provide you with an accurate presentation of the complete manuscript.

The tone of your letter suggests that it would be futile to say that in our lengthy look at the Warren Report versus its critics we were dealing with what these critics had advanced for public knowledge and related those arguments to the Warren Report itself.

From the reaction of the great bulk of the American press it seems unlikely that your low regard for the effort is shared.

Sincerely,

KF/ilp
